Aloha Oe Pris...I am still in shock and can't believe what I found. Last year I did not get a xmas card from you and thought you were busy and today 2/17/2023 I just got your return xmas card and decided to google you and found you obit. I'm still in shock. We were supposed to go to lunch a couple years ago. This is what I said in your xmas card that was returned: "Aloha Pris, did you retire? Miss you! Another year gone by and I haven't had lunch with you again. One day I'm going to surprise you. Our family's getting bigger and Papalee is getting older. Take care and God Bless, Love, Gordon and Margie.."Damn, girl I miss you. We had worked hard on our projects and I wouldn't have gotten the superb end products without your guidance. We will meet again one day...I love you Pris Medford. Aloha Oe, gordon

The news of Pris' death left me vey sad. I knew her throughout elementary and high school. We did not realize it until we got to college, but we both chose the same school and graduated from Washington College at the same time. There was a huge snowstorm over the Christmas Holidays of our freshman year and we were delayed a week getting back. Her father drove us back to school through mounds of snow. Pris was one of the sweetest girls I have known. The world is a darker place without her. I lost touch with her after college, but I will say a prayer for her. My condolences to the family.Sanford AyersLewes, Delaware.
